5.2 Writing — "The Day Something Stopped My Work" (10–12 sentences)

Model answer (copy the shape, change the words):

> Last year, I was writing a long report for my course. I was working at home in the evening, and the room was quiet. While I was typing, the electricity stopped. My laptop had no battery, so the screen went dark. At first I was angry, because I did not save the file. I waited for two hours. When the power came back, I opened the file again. The computer showed an old version from the morning. I lost three hours of work. Now I save my work every ten minutes, and I keep a copy on a USB drive. It is a small habit, but it helps.
