Lesson 5 — The Two O'Clock Class

Part 11 of 12: Answer key and teacher notes

Level: A2+ → B1 (fifth step)

About 10 minutes · this part carries a sheet

Listening: L1 — Rana; she has been teaching a free computer class for children · L2 — for eighteen months · L3 — two o'clock, every Saturday · L4 — her brother

Part A (MCQ): 1-B · 2-B · 3-C · 4-A · 5-B · 6-B · 7-B · 8-B · 9-B · 10-C

Why 7 is [B]: the sentence is about things that cannot be depended on, and only the paragraph after [B] is about unreliable things — six hours of electricity nobody can predict, one dead battery, one laptop that stops the moment the power does.

Why 8 is [B]: the boy in the market is the reason the class exists. He is not evidence about schools, and the paragraph is not about phones.

Why 9 is [B]: the passage gives no instructions and asks for nothing. It follows one person over eighteen months and ends on what the children can now do.

Why 10 is C, respectful: the writer never praises Rana directly — there is no "wonderful", no "heroic". Instead the admiration is carried by what is chosen and reported: the brother who never once sounded angry, the list she has shown to nobody, the last paragraph that refuses a neat ending. Watch for this: in TOEFL, attitude is almost always shown by selection of detail, not by adjectives.

Part B (True/False):

1. F — She studied accounting.
2. T
3. F — One has a battery that lasts forty minutes; the other has none.
4. T
5. F — She has not shown it to anyone.
6. T — It has lost four and gained seven.

Part C (Fill in the blanks): 1. beginners · 2. keyboard · 3. battery · 4. timetable · 5. repairs · 6. installed · 7. patient (Extra words: volunteer, skill)

2.4 A (Opposites): 1. impatient · 2. get worse · 3. keep · 4. expert · 5. break

2.4 B (Odd one out): 1. timetable (the others are parts of a machine) · 2. patient (the others are things you do to a computer) · 3. program (the others are people)

Come back to (present simple or continuous): 1. starts · 2. has been teaching · 3. comes · 4. has been repairing

3.6 A (Present perfect continuous): 1. has been teaching · 2. have been learning · 3. has been repairing · 4. has been teaching · 5. How long have … been studying 3.6 B (Simple or continuous): 1. has installed · 2. has been keeping · 3. has lost · 4. have been learning 3.6 C (for / since): 1. for · 2. since · 3. since · 4. for

Mini-quiz: 1. she has been working · 2. for, since · 3. the simple · 4. impatient · 5. get worse · 6. beginner · 7. install · 8. battery · 9–12. teacher judgement

Teacher Notes

What changed from Lesson 4. The passage grew from 400 to 481 words, the present perfect continuous joins the present perfect, and the comprehension set reaches ten questions — the size of a real TOEFL reading set, and the first time the course has given her a full one. The tenth type, the writer's attitude, is the last of the set; from here nothing new is added and only the text gets harder, which was the promise made in Lesson 1.

The one real difficulty. Not the form, which is mechanical, but knowing when has done will not do. Arabic speakers reach for the simple form for everything, and I have studied English since 2019 is not wrong — it is just weaker than I have been studying. Use 3.4 and 3.6 B: the simple counts how many, the continuous measures how long. If she can say which of those a sentence is doing, she will choose correctly.

Why the pronunciation part is the one to protect. This tense is has + been + -ing, and in speech all three shrink: /ʃiːz bɪn ˈwɜːkɪŋ/. A student who writes it perfectly can still fail to hear it, and then loses the tense in every conversation. Part 05 is not decoration.

On the "Come back to" section. It takes the present simple, which Lessons 1 and 2 taught as habit, and adds the use that nobody teaches early: timetables and fixed arrangements. The exam starts on Monday is a future event in a present tense, and Arabic would mark the future there. It is a small thing that makes her English sound considerably less translated.

Why this story. Four passages have now been about things going wrong and being recovered. This one is about something slowly going right, and it is the first with a character who is not a student. It also gives the attitude question something to bite on: the admiration in it is never stated, only shown, which is exactly what the new question type tests.

Success criteria for Lesson 5. The student should be able to:

- answer L1–L4 correctly on the second hearing;
- hear she's been working and write it in full;
- form the present perfect continuous and ask How long have you been …?;
- choose correctly between simple and continuous in 3.6 B;
- use the present simple for a timetable without reaching for the future;
- use 10 of the 14 key words in her own sentence;
- write 14 sentences about a long activity with fewer than 4 tense errors.

If it is too easy: Lesson 6 goes to about 550 words and adds the future with will and going to, with no new question type — the set is complete. If it is too hard: keep the same passage for a second week, drop question 10, and drill only the Come back to section and 3.4.

A note on spaced recall. `03-vocabulary.mp3` ends with five Lesson 3 words — server, software, restart, broken, save. Lesson 4 recalled Lesson 2, so the two-lesson gap holds. Lesson 4's words are due back in Lesson 6.
